

To Publisher Rollingout:

I'm referring to an article that I read from Rollingout.

<https://rollingout.com/2025/12/24/what-nyc-cab-driver-tell-you-about-fares/>

I don't know who to blame. Is it the writer of the article, Tega Egwabor, for not doing her homework and finding out that the $52. Flat Fare to and from Manhattan to JFK Airport was raised a few years ago to $70. <https://www.nyc.gov/site/tlc/passengers/taxi-fare.page>

Should I blame the NYC Taxi and Limousine Commission for allowing the rates on the doors of the taxis to be removed for no good reason over 10 years ago. This led many out of town visitors to NYC to not know the prices of the taxis before they enter the taxi.

When I read the article, a veteran NYC Taxi Owner and Driver got disturbed.

I would appreciate a correction to this article and I still would like to see the NYC Taxi and Limousine Commission place the Rates on the doors in one way or the other. I had written to the Commission asking to do that several years ago and was turned down.

I will place this email on the NYC Taxi News X page and place it on the NYC Taxi News Website.
